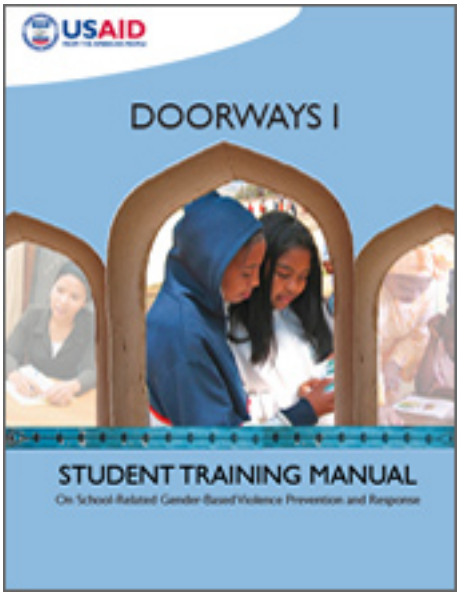
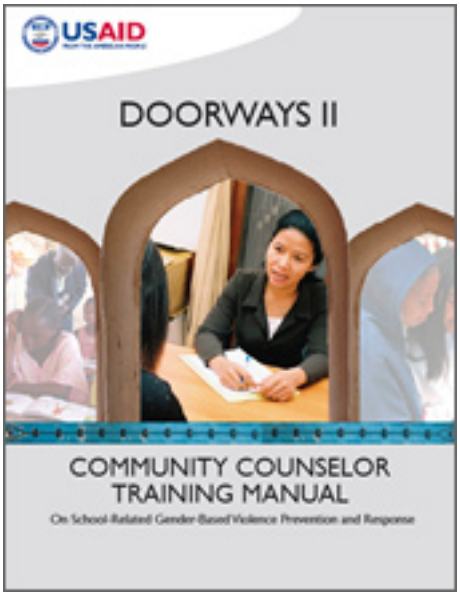
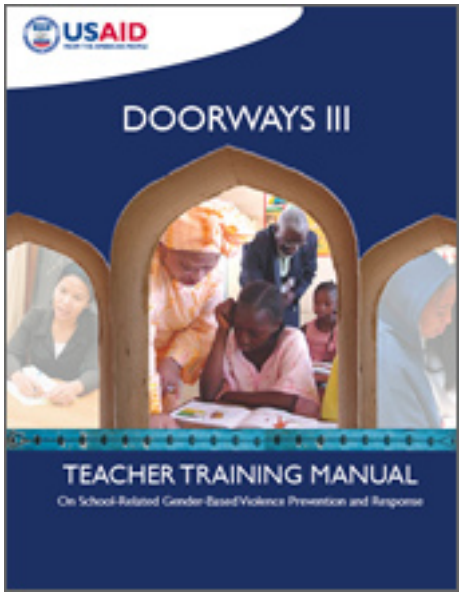
USAID
FROM THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

DOORWAYS TRAINING MANUALS

On School-Related Gender-Based Violence Prevention and Response







DOORWAYS is a series of manuals designed for three key audiences: teachers, students and volunteer community counselors. These individuals together can create a critical mass to bring about transformative, lasting change. Working at the community level is central to making schools safer and the DOORWAYS program can be integrated into any comprehensive national or local plan to reduce gender-based violence.

Available this December on the Office of Women in Development's webpage at http://www.usaid.gov/our_work/cross-cutting_programs/wid/